AVIATION-INSPIRED LEXUS LC INSPIRATION SERIES SPECIAL EDITION NOW AVAILABLE TO ORDER

The Inspired by the world of aviation and aeronautical engineering, the special edition Lexus LC Inspiration Series is now available to order in Australia. Lexus is continuing to pursue even higher standards of its renowned Takumi craftsmanship, leveraging the expertise gained with the application of carbon-fibre in the hallowed LFA supercar and racetrack-focused RC F Track Edition.

Overseas image shown. Lexus LC inspiration series coupe.

The exclusive centrepiece of the latest LC Inspiration Series is its fixed rear wing made of hollow carbon construction, delivering an intricate appearance with the carbon texture showing on the surface - while realising high rigidity and low mass.

While the construction of the rear wing benefits from the meticulous and relentless focus of the Lexus Takumi, the development concept for this special edition began during technology-exchange meetings with air race pilot Yoshihide Muroga in 2017.

Overseas images shown: Lexus LC inspiration series coupe

Choosing 'aviation' as the development concept for the latest LC Inspiration Series, Lexus brought together technologies focusing on the comprehensive aerodynamic performance so important for flight. Combining aircraft technologies and vehicle technologies to realise a harmony of opposite elements with the captivating design of the LC Coupe, Lexus was able to take the 'Even Sharper, More Refined' driving concept of the LC to new heights.

While the aim of a rear wing is typically to increase downforce for enhanced straight-line stability during high-speed driving and enhanced traction during cornering, the rear wing of the LC Inspiration Series targets another specific approach. For the fixed rear wing of the LC Inspiration Series, trailing vortices generated by the tips of the rear wing are used to control the airflow along the vehicle sides, while the main part of the wing contributes to the formation of trailing vortices at the wing tips.

Complementing the edgy, exclusive rear wing, the LC Inspiration Series can be distinguished on the outside by a unique 21-inch forged alloy wheel design that targets a more aggressive look while also enhancing aerodynamic performance. Mono-tone gloss black paint has been used on the new wheels to give the underbody a more taut impression.

Special edition-exclusive black ornamentation continues across the front radiator grille and bumper garnish, headlamp surround, side rocker molding and rear combination lamp bracket.

To provide subtle texture differentiation, jet-black plating is used for the front radiator grille surround and rear combination lamp cover.

The LC Inspiration is available in three exterior colours - White Nova, Sonic Silver and Onyx, providing two contrast hues against the black ornamentation plus a moody all-dark appearance. Inside the LC Inspiration Series, Lexus has targeted increasing the tactility of high touch-point areas that contribute to an exclusive, high-performance feel befitting an aviation-inspired special edition coupe. Entering the vehicle, Inspiration Series-unique carbon scuff plates read Lexus LC Special Edition to heighten the feeling of exclusivity and blend the outside of the vehicle with an introduction to the cabin. Black leather-accented front seats combine with saddle tan accents to create a unique interplay of tones, while Alcantara™ inserts further creates a luxury texture with a velvety, smooth feel.

It is available on a strict order-only basis through Lexus Australia dealerships, and fewer than five units are expected to arrive in Australia.
